DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 6 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Backman et al. (US 2002/0045711 A1).

The reference shows in Examples 2 and 3 ethylene/butene and ethylene/hexene copolymers made using a Ziegler-Natta catalyst which are fabricated into pipes (see also paragraph 0129, lines 6-9). Table 2 shows "Notch" test results which exceed the claimed values, and therefore these examples meet the claims. Although described slightly differently, the notch tests shown in the reference are believed to be the same as or similar to applicants' claimed test because precisely the same ISO method has been identified. The claim recites ISO 13479, and the reference describes the test used as ISO 13479 at paragraph 0060 (and also in claim 17), and therefore the claims and the reference appear to be describing the same test protocol. The burden of proof is shifted to applicants to show that the applied reference examples do not contain the claimed breaking times. In re Fitzgerald, 619 F.2d 67, 205 USPQ 594 (CCPA 1980).

Double Patenting

3. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

4. Claims 6 and 7 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 11 and 12 of U.S. Patent No. 6,720,048. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the instant claims fully encompass those already patented. Specifically, if the patented claims were prior art, they would clearly anticipate the instant claims because the instant claims are more broad than those already patented.
